Seniors Face Retreat Weekend

Jamal Trio Here, March 16

The Ahmad Jamal Trio will present a jazz concert on the St. Joseph's campus on Wednesday evening, March 16. Previously scheduled for Feb. 25, the concert has been moved to the March date because of discrepancies in the Trio's schedule. Playing in the Collegeville auditorium, the Trio will present two concerts so that all students will have ample seating for the show.

Students from Seifert, Merlini, Gallagher, Drexel and the Powerhouses residence halls will be granted tickets to attend the 7:00 session of the performance, while those in Noll, Bennett, Halas, Washburn, White and Scharf will be invited to attend the 8:30 show. Jamal, who has come far in the jazz ranks during the past few years, was first heard with the George Hudson orchestra insofar as public performance is concerned. A few years later he formed his own group, known as Ahmad Jamal's Three Strings, and with this trio he played throughout the Midwest and in New York, attracting considerable attention with his deft articulations. The Three Strings made a number of single records for Epic Records and then returned to Chicago where the present group has become famous through its performance at the Pershing Lounge.

Since that time the Trio has made many long-play albums, with several of these albums being selected on the best-seller lists across the nation.

Arrangements for the show

have been handled by junior class president Al Hanley, under the auspices of the Student Council, the sponsoring unit.

Redemptionist Fr. Nugent To Act as Retreat Master

Student retreats will be given by individual classes this year, and will begin with the senior retreat on March 4-6. The Very Rev. L. A. Nugent, C.S.S.R., a Redemptorist priest from Villa Redeemer, Glenview, Ill., will be the retreat master for the seniors.

Previously, the students made their retreats between the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays in two groups—seniors and juniors, and freshmen and sophomores.

The subsequent retreats for the other classes are as follows: March 18-20, juniors; March 25-27, sophomores; and April 1-3, freshmen. The 8:30 Sunday mass during retreat weekends will be reserved for the particular class making a retreat.

The schedule for the senior re-trete is as follows:

Friday 8:00 PM—Opening Conference (Confessions afterwards)

Saturday 7:30 AM—Mass

Saturday 9:30 AM—Conference

(Confessions afterwards)

Saturday 11:15 AM—Conference

Saturday 2:00 PM—Conference

(Confessions)

Saturday 4:00 PM—Conference

Saturday 8:00 PM—Conference

(Benediction, Confessions)

Sunday 8:30 AM—Low Mass, Short

Talk, and Papal Blessing.

Peter Palmer Band Set To Play at Prom, May 7

Peter Palmer and his band are scheduled to entertain St. Joe prom-goers at the annual Junior-Senior Prom to be held on May 7.

Al Hanley, the president of the junior class and chairman for the dance, announced that no theme has been definitely decided upon as yet. However, he said, the French atmosphere off a Paris street scene has been suggested and tentative plans lean in that direction. The dance will be held, as it was last year, in the Rec. Hall. As usual, the Revels dance is planned for the night before the Prom, also in the Rec. hall.

Hanley announced that the price of the bids has not been determined, but that it would probably range between $10.00 and $13.00. Final details concerning tuxedos and liquor have not yet been made. These matters will be decided in future meetings of the various committees.

Committee chairmen for the Prom include: John Mascotte, Leo Klemme, Marty Waters, Art Mueller, Robert Collins, Russell Dhooge, Mike Mettler, and Tom Talaga.

Fr. Diekmann To Give Talk

Fr. Godfrey Diekmann, O.S.B., will deliver the annual St. Thomas Aquinas day sermon at the evening Mass on March 7 in honor of the saint. Fr. Diekmann was graduated from St. John's university in 1928, was ordained in 1931, and studied at Maria Lach in Germany for two years.

He received his doctorate in Sacred Theology from the College of St. Anselmo, Rome, in 1933 and has taught patrology and Church history at St. John's university since that time.

Auditions for Talent Show Open Soon

Audition time for the annual St. Joe Talent Show is just around the corner. The show, open to all students, will be held March 23 in the auditorium, and the tryouts and rehearsals will take place about a week before the show. The exact dates will be announced later.

Matt Lynch, vice president of the Student Council, is in charge of getting the show together. There will be an attempt this year, he said, to center the show around a Western theme, with a take-off on television's horseback heroes. However, the individual acts need not be organized with this theme in mind, as it will be carried out through fill-in material between the acts in an effort to tie the show together and give it unity.

Mike Fontanetta will again act as master of ceremonies for the show. He will be assisted by Lynch. Mr. Willard Walsh will be the faculty advisor for the show. Fontanetta is a familiar figure to all St. Joe upperclassmen who remember his stunts from last year's "successful" show.

"We will try to get a little more variety into the show this year," said Lynch. "We would like to get some old time vaudeville acts, Anyone who would like to audition for the show should contact Lynch, Fontanetta, Mr. Walsh, or Bob Gallagher. They will then be assigned a time to appear in the auditorium for their audition.

Ballad Singers Marais, Miranda To Appear at St. Joe, March 10

Josef Marais and Miranda, international "balladeers" famous for their concerts, recordings, radio and television programs, will appear at the St. Joseph's auditorium on Thursday, March 10, at 8:15 p.m., in another presentation of the college concert series.

As composers and singers they have collected humorous and tender songs from many countries, translated them freely into modern English, and fashioned them into solos and duets. Most of their songs are presented in English, with an added verse in the original language for authentic flavor and style.

Marais sings in an easy, relaxed baritone, and Miranda in a light soprano as Marais plays accompaniment on the classic guitar. Marais, born in South Africa, was a violinist and composer, giving recitals in England, when he began a series of song and adventure programs for the British Broadcasting Corporation called African Trek. In these he featured South African folk songs he had known since his boyhood days on his father's sheep ranch. The broadcasts and his recordings became so popular that he came to the United States to present a similar series for the National Broadcasting Company.

Miranda, born in Amsterdam, began her career as a pianist and accompanist, playing at first to accompany her mother, a concert singer, and her brother, a violinist. She later studied voice in New York.

The two first became acquainted while working together for the Voice of America. Since their marriage in 1947 they have toured widely in the United States and Europe. They have appeared together on NBC and CBS networks and have published many popular songs and a folk opera, Tony Beaver.

Among their Decca and Columbia recordings of folk songs, popular songs and children's songs are Sugarbush, How Lovely Cooks the Meat, Henrietta's Wedding, Pretty Kitty, and The Zulu Warrior. Among their Long-Play albums are Marais and Miranda In Person, Songs of Spirit and Humor, Africana Suite, and South African Folk Songs.

Admission to the concert is free to all St. Joseph's students, but there will be a charge of $2.00 a ticket to the general public.

Length of Retreat Questioned As Sufficient for Success

During the season of Lent, all four classes at St. Joseph's will be making their annual "Retreat." Retreats have been accepted among modern college students as a necessity. They give the average collegian a chance to look back over his past and to judge the areas in which his personality and morality need improvement.

What we are wondering is whether or not the "Retreat" program at St. Joseph's is sufficient to allow the student to accomplish this purpose. As we see from the schedule, the "Retreat" opens on Friday night with services and closes on Sunday morning at Mass. The body of the "Retreat" is concentrated on Saturday, when there are five sessions scheduled with approximately one hour in between.

Does this not compare with the common Day of Recollection offered in many parishes two or three times a year?

Students of college age are undoubtedly mature enough to realize the necessity for improvement in their lives. Surely they would be willing, and in some cases eager, to devote three full days to the concentration on their lives. For many this could very well be the last retreat they will attend, and therefore, it will be the most important one they have ever made. Why try to cram such an important event as this into one day, when it would be much more beneficial if prolonged?

Stretching the "Retreat" into a longer period of time would give the student the opportunity to realize the importance of such an event, would give him more time to dwell on the subjects presented by the retreat master, and would give the retreat master a chance to delve more deeply into the subjects he finds himself covering only superficially in the present set-up.

At St. Joseph's, then, we need a Retreat—not a Day of Recollection.

Young Democrat, Republican Clubs Urged for Campus

Party politics seem to be the up-and-coming thing on college campuses across the nation. Young Democrat and Republican clubs have been formed in many instances by the students themselves, and even the administrations have contributed to political needs by programming speakers well-versed in the world of politics.

Right here on our own campus this past weekend we saw evidence of a yet small, but avid group of students interested in the dealings of both parties prior to the presidential elections.

Speakers at the Political Workshop openly expressed their surprise at the quality of questions asked. According to them, the questions were for the most part, "direct and to the point, but not embarrassing." To the speakers, we believe this quality far surpassed the fact that there were only a small group of St. Joseph's students who attended the Workshop.

Using the small group that attended, then, as a nucleus, we see a need for the student formulation of both Young Democrat and Young Republican clubs on this campus. Interest of the type that was shown at the Workshop should not be stifled in its bud.

America is blessed by the fact that it has free elections. People of age in the United States have the right to cast their ballot for the person of their choice, with absolutely no restrictions. Problems in this type of situation arise only when the public either does not care or has no means of knowing about the workings of political parties. Political clubs are a definite way for students to become closer to the politics of their land.

At the college level, students are just forming the political views they will probably hold the rest of their lives. This, then, is one of the most important periods of their life for formulation of ideas. We see political clubs as a great help in this formulation. They can give the students clear and strong ideas to carry with them, rather than vague and uncertain ones which could be changed by any person slightly more eloquent than themselves.

Even though groups of this nature could have fallen by the wayside in the past, the present interest expressed in the backbone of America puts the writing on the wall for the reestablishment of such groups. To begin only a few students are needed to set up the technicalities of the club, to draw up the Constitution, and to submit it to the Council. Drawing members should not be hard unless the students on the campus are completely disinterested in the affairs that will affect them for the remainder of their lives.

These clubs could serve their members by discussing party ideas, by clearly defining party differences, by encouraging students to continue their interests after college, and by bringing in influential speakers to clear up muddled ideas which are discovered in their discussions.

These are just a few of the many advantages of political clubs on a college campus. Why not St. Joseph's?

Reviews At Random

by Glenn Clausen

Man is a machine to be used by the State. He is of no value unless he contributes his being to the economic and political machinery of the State without questioning its wisdom. A dictatorial police state, following this philosophy, and basing its economy on slave labor, as does Soviet Russia, is far more vulnerable to the very methods that its rulers advocate for the internal overthrow of other governments than is commonly suspected by Western experts.

The above is the opinion of Joseph Schloemer, a prisoner in the Vorkuta slave labor camps for five years. Schloemer exposes the rotten core of the Russian system in his book Vorkuta. (The Vorkuta camps are located above the port of Archangel on the barren tundra of Siberia. They produce almost all of the coal for the industrial center at Leningrad with slave labor.)

Schloemer looks at the animal-like existence of his fellow prisoners with the detached, impersonal view of the typical German scientist. Starvation diets, prison camp murders, and homo-sexuality are discussed with the same objective observation as politics and economics in his book.

The former radiologist, Gestapo prisoner, and Communist Schloemer tells of the fanatical dedication of men to a dictator in his remarks on the former SS men in the camp and their undying worship of Hitler and his system. Communists who had been sentenced by their own system to a living death continue to hold to their false ideology behind the barbed wire of Vorkuta.

The author advocates a general strike by the workers as the best way to overthrow the police state system in the Worker's

Paradise. His tale of the prisoner's strike after Stalin's death indicates that the Russian people would rise up against their economic system.

Council Critique

by Tom Cusick

At the last Student Council meeting, the Council once again passed off the problem of line-crashing in the cafeteria. The junior class had asked that the Council take action in the matter, but the now familiar wait-and-see policy was once again applied. I think it was applied once too often.

Council members brought out several facts in the brief discussion of the matter. One member mentioned that when he had told a line-crasher to go to the end of the line, he had been laughed at and heckled by the other students around him. Another made note of the fact that those leaving the chapel after noon Mass and those coming in the side door from Drexel simply walk right into the front of the line.

Types of solutions ran from setting up guards along the line, to declaring an open season for line-crashing. The proponents of the latter felt that the students would soon become tired of it and go back to waiting their own turn. Both of these theories were quickly discounted as being unrealistic.

In the end, it was decided that the Council would take no action on the matter, because (1) there was no solution and (2) it was not in their jurisdiction. It was freely admitted by many that they were crashing the line this semester merely out of frustration.

I'm sure that none of us expect the Student Council members to have intuitive knowledge concerning all of the problems they come up against merely because they have been elected to office and given a title. This would be a ridiculous assumption. But, I do question the Council's statement that this is out of their jurisdiction.

Where has the Council decided to draw its line dividing its responsibilities and the responsibilities of others? Since it is apparently still working over the revised version of the constitution, I think that this is a good time for the members to lay some concrete basis for deciding which problems are of their concern.

According to the Constitution now in effect, the Council's purpose is, among other things, "to promote the general welfare of the College." How do the members define "general welfare"? They obviously consider it to mean far more than the enjoyment of social affairs by the students, or they wouldn't have formed the Discipline Committee recently.

In a situation such as this, the Student Council is the only body that can act efficiently and with authority. They have made some attempts at finding a solution. A talk with the Dean of Students and discussion of the situation at two or three Council meetings, however, do not appear to have done the job. The Council has close to a thousand students from whom to draw ideas and possibly by inquiring they might find one thought that is some sort of a practical solution.

The Council has an obligation to the majority of students at St. Joe's. The students have asked for action on something they believe to be wrong. To throw its hands in the air and pronounce the problem unsolvable is not fulfilling that obligation.

The constitution, which has been in the process of being revised for many months now, should be made more explicit in terms of responsibility. This revised constitution will probably be in force for many years to come. Therefore, it should be definitive enough so that future Councils will recognize their responsibilities to the Student Union when similar perplexing situations arise.

Thinking Men Prefer:

by Martie Rosinski

The question whether to emphasize or de-emphasize athletics is a problem being presented to many colleges around the country. There is a great deal of expense in fielding athletic teams and the majority of smaller colleges have very little return at the gate. St. Joe is a small college with much the same problem. Should we de-emphasize athletics in an effort to maximize the scholastic potential of this college, or should we seek to establish ourself as the outstanding small college in the Midwest? What effect does an outstanding athletic team have on the morale of the student body and on the scholastic goals of the college?

Joe Johnson, St. Joe, Mich. Freshman

Why not leave things as they are? Spending all the school's resources to obtain a higher caliber ball player doesn't sound like such a smart move to me. Then, why de-emphasize athletics in an effort to raise the already high scholastic standards of S.J.C.? Personally, I think a college with a fairly good team and reasonable scholastic standards will be chosen over one with no athletic program or one with no brain power, and once it is chosen over the others, its enrollment (consequently its revenue) will increase.

An outstanding athletic team will certainly have a good effect on the student body of any school or college. What effect such a team has on the scholastic goals is debatable, but I would say that over-all averages would go up because of the students' desire to remain in such a well-known institution—if for no other reason.

Phil Mesarch, Gary, Ind. Junior

A de-emphasis of athletics would leave next to nothing in the way of morale builders here at St. Joe. An outstanding school is one that is looked up to both academically AND athletically. I don't know about others, but it makes me proud to be able to say that a national championship team represented St. Joe just recently. I see no relationship between an outstanding athletic team and the scholastic goals of a college, but I do see one with the school morale involved. No, I would not de-emphasize, I would build!!

rules if there was any hope of success. The prison camps, according to Schloemer, are the logical places for the flame of freedom to be ignited.

Schloemer attacks Western diplomacy throughout his book. He denounces Western experts on the Soviet problem as so many bags of wind. Britain and the United States have created a Munich atmosphere of fear and attrition in the West—eventually they will dig their own graves through fear and ignorance, says Schloemer.

Vorkuta is a 302 page book, which, while scientific in tone and style, can easily be read in one night. While it is only one man's social comment it is well worth reading as it is a chillingly felt, concise study of the main lever of Russian power and stability—the Soviet's slave labor economy.

Ernie O'Day, Chicago, Ill. Junior

If St. Joe were lax scholastically, I would be in favor of de-emphasizing the importance of athletics. Since this is not the case, I see nothing wrong in seeking to establish St. Joe's as the outstanding small college athletically, as well as scholastically. If the athletic teams were better, I think the student body would have better spirit than they do now. Scholastics and athletics aren't two parallel lines. They can meet and be one for the betterment of both school and students.

John Patterson, Fort Wayne, Ind. Freshman

I think that you should continue the present athletic program if at all possible. I realize that because of financial problems the school is considering de-emphasis of sports. If you cannot come to some kind of arrangement for funds, I would suggest charging a nominal fee which would be paid in the student union fee to help cover the cost of maintaining the present program.

Missionary Gives Thanks

Dear Students of St. Joseph's College:

Your Dean of Men has forwarded to me a check for $1,626.85. This contribution through your Sunday offerings is a tremendous help to the needs of the Precious Blood Fathers in Chile.

Every Padre working in our South American mission field is a St. Joe man. The word about this is going to get around fast. I believe it will give a boost to more than finances. Morale surely thrives on the help and interest that comes from something one belongs to, like old alma mater.

Blessings to you for your generosity.

Sincerely in Christ,
Mission Procurator

St. Joe To Stage Mock Convention

Plans have been announced for the staging of a mock political convention on the St. Joseph's campus Wednesday and Thursday, April 27 and 28. Procedures of the convention will parody those of the national Democratic convention which will be held in Los Angeles this summer.

Bill Moriarty and Marty Waters have been chosen to take care of all arrangements for the event, including the selection of delegates. A total of 177 to 218 students will be chosen to act as delegates from 23 states. Each session should last approximately three hours, according to Moriarty, and will be held in the auditorium.

Tentative schedules for the convention have been set up as follows: Address of welcome; Verification of credentials; Introduction of the delegates from Indiana; Keynote address, to be made by a selected politician; Three speeches by students on party politics; Announcement and voting acceptance of the party platform; Nomination of candidates and two seconding speeches (five candidates will be nominated); Balloting; Vice-presidential nominations; Balloting; Vice-presidential acceptance speech; Presidential acceptance speech; adjournment. The Wednesday session will be recessed after approximately three hours at a time, convenient to the agenda.

Selection of delegates will be made through a campus-wide survey to determine the number of students interested in participating. Acceptance and nominating addresses will be prepared previously so that they may be given at the appropriate times.

Mock conventions have been held on many college campuses across the nation in the past and have been termed successful and most informative to all.

Placement Bureau Sets Interviews for March

Interviews scheduled for the month of March have been announced by Mr. Richard Scharf, director of the placement bureau. Seniors wishing to take any of the interviews should first have their applications and resumes filled out for the bureau's files, and then should sign up for the individual interview approximately one week before the date which has been set.

With the recent change in administration building offices, the placement bureau is now in the office previously occupied by the dean of students. Information concerning placement in all fields is on display for the students' use in the office.

Not included in the schedule of interviews is the General Accounting office, which will be on campus sometime during the next two months.

Interviews are as follows:

March 3—Conference, U.S. Social Security Administration.
March 4—Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, Akron, O., interviewing business trainees, credit merchandisers, inside and territorial salesmen.
March 8—General Telephone, Ft. Wayne, Ind., interviewing accountants.
March 9—U.S. Social Security Administration, interviewing sta-ticians, actuaries, economists, and trainees.

March 10—Ernst and Ernst, interviewing accountants.

March 11—Interchemical Corporation, interviewing those with a great deal of chemistry background.

March 23—Lincoln National Life Insurance, Fort Wayne, Ind., interviewing salesmen.

March 25—Roche Laboratories, interviewing pharmaceutical salesmen.

March 31—Federal Service Entrance Examiners—on campus to explain the qualifications necessary for working with federal agencies. This service gives examinations throughout the year which are a prerequisite for employment with the government. Examinations to be given by the government during the second semester will be held on April 9 and May 14. Deadlines for applications are March 25 and April 28, respectively.

Political Workshop Shows Need For Two Parties

by Mike Doyle

In politics, every question has two sides.

This short sentence could probably sum up the thoughts of the approximately eighty students who attended the Political Workshop which was sponsored by the History club.

The Workshop opened Saturday morning at ten o'clock, with a session which proved to be for the greater part introductory. In it the speakers were introduced, and an opening address was delivered by Tim Sullivan.

During the afternoon sessions the Workshop got down to business. Mr. Robert Pastrick, president of the Young Democrats of Indiana, and Mr. Stan Evans, Publicity Chairman of the National Federation of Young Republicans, shared the rostrum in the first session, both delivering speeches pertaining to the idea that "everybody should belong to a political party."

During the speeches and during the discussion period which followed it was brought out that political parties are needed for good government in the United States, and that good government is obtained only when intelligent citizens take an active part. Both speakers stressed the fact that the college years are an excellent time to learn the nature of politics and suggested that political clubs could easily be formed.

In the second session, State Senator Marshall Kizer (Democrat, Plymouth, Indiana) opposed State Senator Earl F. Landgrebe (Republican, Valparaiso, Indiana) on the topic of policy, and during the ensuing discussion they tried to point out the difference between the Democrats and the Republicans and also the difference between conservatism and liberalism.

The workshop ended with a panel discussion Sunday morning, moderated by Mr. Howard Phillips, assistant professor of history, Saint Joseph's college. The participants tried to formulate the ideas which they had acquired during the workshop, and analyzed the important issues of the coming election. After the closing conference, the members of the N.F.C.C.S. attended the Regional Council meeting.

Woman Will Give Address To Graduates

Dr. Helen C. White, professor of English at the University of Wisconsin, will be the baccalaureate speaker at St. Joseph's June graduation exercises.

Dr. White will receive the honorary Litt. D. degree from the College and two prominent members of the St. Joseph's lay Board of Trustees will receive honorary L.L.D. degrees. Mr. Morris E. Jacobs of Centerville, O., a member of Bozell and Jacobs advertising firm, and Mr. Justin H. Oppenheim of Sutterville, O., are to be presented with the L.L.D. degrees.

Graduated Summa Cum Laude from Radcliffe College in 1916, Dr. White was awarded the George E. Sohler Prize for her thesis. She obtained her M.A. degree from Radcliffe in 1917 and her Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin in 1924.

Dr. White is the authoress of 13 books. She has received the honorary L.L.D. degree from three colleges, the Litt.D. degree from six colleges, and the L.H.D. degree from five colleges.

SJC Enrollment Drops For Second Semester

Enrollment figures for the second semester of the 1959-60 school year show a total of 984 students registered at St. Joseph's, a drop of 104 from the record-breaking 1,088 of the first semester. The total, a decrease of 9.6 per cent, includes all returning, new and reentering students, both boarding and day, as well as Xavier seminarians.

Out of the first semester freshman total of 425, approximately one out of nine either became sophomores, or dropped out of school, and 15 students entered or re-entered at the semester for a class total of 189.

The only class to increase in number since the first semester is the seniors, who rose from 137 to 142. Only one reentering student joined the senior class ranks since the first semester.

Special students registered for the second semester total eight, as opposed to the 15 of last semester. Xavier seminarians account for 48 of the registered students, consisting of 23 freshmen, 15 sophomores, eight juniors, one senior and one special student.

SJ Council To Sponsor 'Flapper Era' Movies

Collegeville's auditorium will soon revert to the "Flapper" era! On three nights, March 24, March 31 and April 7, old time movies will be shown for the enjoyment of the student body.

Under the sponsorship of the Student Council, three two-hour comedies will be presented on the auditorium screen. Included in the program are "The Strong Man" with Harold Lloyd, "Duck Soup," with W. C. Fields, and one of the Marx Brothers comedies. All three are old-time comedies, with the first two being silent movies.

To add the "Flapper" atmosphere to each showing, Pat Goedert has consented to play the honky-tonk piano while the movies are playing. Plans are also being made to include atmosphere outside the converted "cinema" with the use of a barker urging people to attend.

With the cooperation of Mr. Richard Kilmer, head of the division of social sciences, the movies will be obtained from the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry.

The annual Indiana Catholic College Choral Festival will be held on the campus of St. Francis College in Ft. Wayne, Ind., on April 30 and May 1.

Besides St. Joseph's, there will be four other colleges participating in the Festival: St. Mary-of-the-Woods, Marian, St. Mary's of Notre Dame, and the host school, St. Francis college.

This is the fourth year of the Festival which was begun in the spring of 1957 by Fr. Lawrence Heiman at St. Joseph's for the purpose of promoting better choral singing.

SC Leaves Problem of Linecutting to Students

One of the problems dealt with at the Feb. 18 meeting of the Student Council was the possible means by which the Council could put an end to line cutting in the cafeteria. Junior class president Al Hanley brought the matter up at the request of a group of his classmates. Discussion ensued on the solutions suggested in the past and their failure. As a solution to the matter, the Council decided to leave the problem up to the students themselves to solve.

Ed Massura, Council treasurer, reported that the expenses for the Mardi Gras dance came to approximately $395.95, plus the unpaid bills for meals over the weekend. Income from ticket sales was reported as $390.00.

Reports from the classes announced the date of the Prom as May 7 and the Frosh-Soph Hop as May 14. Peter Palmer has been contracted to play for the Prom. Other dates which were accepted by the Council were the Jazz Concert on March 16, the Talent Show on March 23, the Monogram club-Faculty basketball game on March 8, the Mock Convention on April 27 and 28, the Old-Time movies on

Collegeville Confidential

by Tim J. Sullivan, Jr.

For some strange reason, we received a letter, addressed to "Collegeville Confidential? Stuff, Rensselaer, Ind." Following are the contents of that letter:

Dear Sir;

The rather contemptible attack on such a venerable institution as the St. Joseph's college book store, which appeared in that "rag" of yours last week, saddened and angered our entire group. Due to your lack of prudence and perception, you are hereby banned forever from the environs of our establishment. Get your books someplace else, Clown! And that goes for the rest of the Stuff staff, also.

Very nastily yours,
(signed) The SJC Book Store

How would you like to find something like this in your mailbox?

Well, after the shock of receiving this admonishment, we decided that food would perhaps be some solace. And, after fighting our way out of the post office, we walked down the freeway, between the "Keep Off the Grass" signs, and tried to get into the south entrance of the cafeteria, only to find that someone had removed the door handles and had posted a sign saying, "No Entrance—Use North Door." Well, silliness is silliness, so we went to the north door, as the sign so politely requested.

After pushing open the door, we found ourselves in a low-ceilinged hall, drafty and lined with books, clothes, clean sheets and students smoking cigarettes while leaning up against the radiators in a vain attempt to keep warm. (There's no heat around here, you fool!).

Everyone was just standing around, with the usual bored look on their faces, with the exception of one individual who was seated in one of the corners of the hall, with his head resting on his hands, and his knees drawn up in a position somewhat resembling that usually called "foetal." Faint sobs were perceived to emit from his gaunt frame on occasion. And, being a charitable type, we decided to see if we could possibly console him in any way.

Walking over to him, we asked: "Hello there! Why are you seated here, surrounded by all this dirt and filth?"

No answer!

We tried again: "We say there, why are you seated here in this corner, hunched up as you are, surrounded by dirt and filth?"

Again no answer.

So, we bashed the individual over the head with a handy ball bat, just to get his attention, and asked again: "You there, why are you seated here as you are, surrounded by dirt and filth, and sobbing?"

"Oh, please! Don't strike me again! I am seated here, surrounded by dirt and filth because there is no place here that has not a lot of dirt and filth in it."

And with that, he again burst into sobs and loud wailings.

"There, there," we said, in a vain attempt to comfort him, "Why are you crying as you are?"

"Well," he said, looking up at us with a piteous look on his face, "I came over here an hour or so ago to get some dinner, and that is what I am sobbing about."

"My!" we exclaimed, "Do tell us your sad story."

"Well," he said, "I left my room in the usual manner, at approximately two minutes before the cafeteria line was to open, and got here approximately three minutes after it opened. On the way over, I stopped in the post office, and found that my girl had missed writing to me for the thirty-fifth consecutive day. Well, when I got here to this very hall in which we stand, I found that the line ended somewhere near the doors to the chapel, after winding out through this hall, up the stairs past the brothers' recreation room, and down and around that long hall to the chapel. And, being a conscientious type individual, I assumed my place at the end. We stood there for twenty minutes, and did not move. Various rumors came back through the line, such as "line cutters" and "Mongies," but . . .

(Due to the excess verbosity of Mr. Sullivan, this column will have to be continued next week—Ed.)

Hanley Science Award Contest Closes, April 1

Friday, April 1, has been set as the deadline for the annual Hanley Science Award contest, according to Fr. Urban Siegrist. The contest, open only to juniors and seniors majoring or minoring in natural sciences, requires all entrants to submit their essays in triplicate and under a pen name to either Fr. Siegrist or their divisional heads. A sealed envelope containing a card with the title of the essay, the entrant's name and assumed name must also accompany the manuscript.

Fr. Siegrist stated that the essays should "present technical data in such a manner that the layman can understand it, while retaining scientific accuracy." All manuscripts will be judged by the appointed committee on the basis of interest of topic, logical order, clarity, grammar, information presented, composition, style, originality, spelling and neatness.

The first place prize of $100 is donated by William A. Hanley, '08 of Indianapolis. Dr. Frank A. Benchik, '42 of East Chicago, Ind., donates the second place prize of $50. These awards will possibly be presented on Parent's Day at the college in May.

Last year's winner was Ray Tennant and his essay, "Iota," was printed in the winter issue of Measure. Mr. Tennant also won the Hanley Award in 1958 for his essay, "Stigma."

Fr. Druhman Speaks to Honor Group

Fr. Alvin Druhman, head of the division of humanities, presented an interesting and informative lecture on the development of language at the last meeting of Delta Epsilon Sigma on Feb. 25.

Fr. Druhman explained the various theories on the origin of language and traced its development to the present day, emphasizing the modifications which different societies imposed on specific words. There was a short question period following the talk.

Also at the meeting, Hank Pictor inquired concerning the result of the Chapter proposal to acquire jackets. The president, James Blazzy, said he had discussed the matter several times with Fr. Maziarz who said that the Academic Senate felt the proposal of the Chapter did not express the actual desire of the Chapter. The proposal was thereby tabled.

Fr. Maziarz also explained the proposed acquisition of a national honor society for St. Joseph's College which would encompass the freshman and sophomore classes. However, he said that some time would elapse before final arrangements would be completed.

Fr. Maziarz then proposed that a letter be written to Yale University requesting information on the recent "Challenge Club" which they have instituted.

Club News

The Model Railroad club held its first meeting of the second semester on Wednesday, February 17. Plans were made to again sponsor a model contest during the second semester. It was noted that some students were unable to finish their models in time for the contest last semester. These students are encouraged to complete their models in time for entry into this contest.

To enable better classification of models, the divisions of the contest have been revised. The new divisions are: original works; kit models and crafts; and automobile kits. The deadline for this semester's contest is Friday, April 29. A more detailed explanation of the rules has been posted on the bulletin boards around campus, and additional copies are available at the Rec hall Hobby Shop.

The Camera club will again sponsor a snapshot contest with the awards being presented on Parent's Day at the college. The prizes will be announced later. Deadline for the contest is April 25, and there will be an entrance fee of 50¢.

Also, the club will make supplies available to the students of the college at the price charged members. Thus, in most cases, the cost of film and flash bulbs will be lower than retail prices.

The club will now develop and print black and white film for the students. Anyone interested should see Tony Tumbarelli.

The Motor City club has completed arrangements for its Easter Dance which will be held on Monday, April 18th. The Piemonte Club on Puritan Avenue in Detroit will be the site. The donation will be $3.50 for guests and $3.00 for members. Tickets were distributed to the members at the meeting held last Tuesday evening.

The first steps were taken towards the beginning of a full fledged recruiting effort in the Detroit area when Mr. Rudy Volz, alumni director of the College, along with two students went to Detroit last weekend. On Friday they visited five high schools in the area. Mr. Volz reports that the trip was quite successful.

The newly formed Detroit chapter of the Parent's Club is moving ahead with their activities. In addition to promoting the Easter Dance, they are also cooperating with Mr. Volz in an attempt to bring the alumni in the Detroit area together for a meeting.

STUFF Salutes Puma Senior Stars

Bobby Williams

St. Joseph's leading scorer and record breaker during the 1959-60 basketball season was Bobby Williams, 5'10" senior guard from Indianapolis, Ind.

Along with his roommate, Jim Koehler, Bobby has led the Puma fast break for his past three years on the varsity. A graduate of Indianapolis Shortridge high school, Bobby earned varsity letters in both basketball and track.

In his senior year at St. Joseph's, the Puma star came closer and closer to the St. Joseph's records until the Ball State game on January 16, when he went on to break the points-per-game record with 42 points. This did not satisfy Bobby, though, so he went on further to break his own record in the last game of his college career. This time he scored 45 points against Marian on Feb. 27 at his home court.

Along with his many St. Joe records in scoring, Bobby also played outstanding basketball under the boards, averaging approximately 8.5 rebounds per game, high for a 5'10" guard in practically any league.

Majoring in accounting, Bobby has taken an interest in extracurricular affairs. This year he was elected to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. He is now a member of the Monogram club and was elected as an officer of the club this year.

In 1957-58 he was given honorable mention on the All-ICC squad, and was elected to the first team in 1958-59. Also in his sophomore year he was chosen as the ICC's Most Valuable Player, the All-Catholic All-Midwest first team, the NAIA All-American Third Team, Honorable Mention All-Catholic All-American chosen by the Brooklyn Tablet, and was leading scorer in the ICC, which honor he also gained this year.

3 Year Totals	62	1020	.455	.446	441	.316	.717	510	192	1226	19.8

During his college career, Bobby scored over nine points in a game 51 times, over 10 points 11 times, over 19 points 32 times, over 29 points 11 times, and over 39 points three times, these last three times being in his senior year.

All in all, Bobby has contributed greatly to Puma basketball victories during the past three years and has put both his name and the name of St. Joseph's on ICC record books often.

Most field goals scored in single season—120 in 12 games.

strength to keep it.

At Villa Madonna, Jack had his best scoring night of the year with 22 points; he totaled 18 rebounds that night. At Indiana State, he tore down 24 rebounds while pouring in 17 points.

St. Joe fans saw Jack play one of his finest games in a loss to Butler in the Puma fieldhouse. The Pumas almost had Butler in the high-scoring contest, but dropped the decision in the final minutes, 105-97. One of the reasons for the squad's fine showing against a rugged Bulldog team was Jack's 20 points and 15 rebounds.

At the end of three years of varsity competition, Jack has an overall scoring average of 10.9 points a game. However, his biggest contribution to the Puma cause has always been his strength off the boards.

Jack Finnegan

Jack Finnegan has been the St. Joe "big" man. During the last three years, the Pumas have come to depend on the 6'4" center from Louisville, Ky., for the major share of their rebounds. And big Jack rarely let them down.

As a junior, he led the ICC in rebounding by pulling down 15.9 a game. Jack also had a 12.6 scoring average that year to show that rebounding was not his only forte.

In his senior campaign, Jack kept his scoring at about the same level, averaging 11.8 points a game. And, as usual, he was always there for the big rebound. He grabbed 13 a game this year.

Jack is the steady, dependable type of ballplayer who is so often unnoticed, except by the opposition. Always cool under fire, he was a feared rebounder in the ICC because he knew how to get position under the boards and had the strength off the boards.

Given full generalship of the St. Joe attack and unleashed for the full 40 minutes, Koehler passed smartly, dribbled cutely and scored 121 more points than he picked up in both of his previous two seasons.

Whereas he had averaged only 5.7 points per game over those first two seasons, Jimmy scored at a 15.6 clip this year.

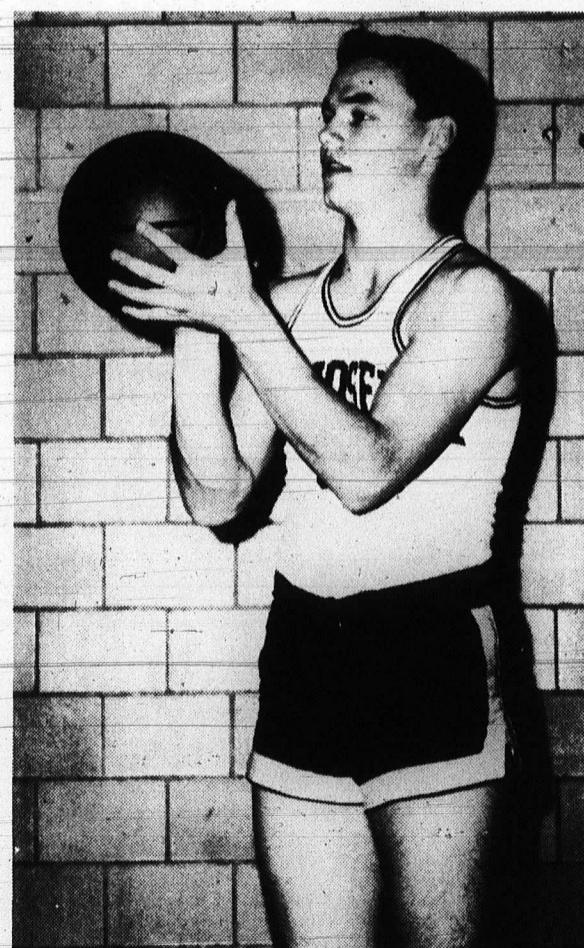

His best game, point-wise, was a 24 point performance down at Villa Madonna. He scored 22 points against Indiana State and Marian and hit for 21 against Anderson and DePauw.

He scored 18 points on five other occasions and popped in 19 twice. The 5'7" hustler was in double figures in all but three of the 21 games he played in.

Jimmy led the team in free throw percentage, was third on the Pumas in total scoring, percentage, and average, and second only to you-know-who in field goals.

A needle-threading passer, Koehler led the team in assists and was the trigger of many of Williams' shots.

Jim Koehler

For two years Jimmy Koehler was the most talented bench-warmer in the ICC as he sat in the shadow of high-scoring guard Dan Rogovich. Although he never appeared in less than 16 games in each of those seasons, Koehler's actual playing time was measured in a handful of minutes.

Then in the last three games of the 1958-59 campaign, with Rogovich off the team, Koehler was given the starting guard slot and the first real chance to fulfill his potential.

In the NAIA District 21 playoffs at Terre Haute last year Jimmy scored 14 and 22 points and was voted the most outstanding player in the tourney. He had taken command.

This year there was little doubt as to who would flank Bobby Williams on the Puma backline. The spurs of the St. Joe fast break fitted easily onto Koehler's fleet feet.

BOWLING

As the season nears its conclusion the Nebbishes have replaced the Gallagher Inns at the top of the Wednesday bowling League. A fight to the finish appears certain in the Thursday League with the Marauders being hotly pursued by three eager contenders, while in the Tuesday League the Overtakers maintain their lead.

Joe Barath's 257 remains the season's high individual game and Gene Tunney's 636 series is still high in that department. On Feb. 25, the Noll Nebbishes of the Thursday league set a new season high team series mark when they bowled a whopping 3071 series.

As March 14 approaches excitement mounts and every team is praying for a good draw in the basketball tournament. The Bennett Overtakers will be out to defend their title against the dozens of teams that have dreams of the top birth. Last year the Overtakers lost one game in the regular season, and that was to the Bennett 7-7's who remained undefeated during the regular season; but in the tournament the Overtakers went on to defeat the 7-7's in their rematch to grab the title. This year the Overtakers will have to be as tough as ever when the chips are down if they want to win the championship for a second successive year.

Although the regular season is rapidly drawing to a close, the IM basketball teams have not yet settled down to any permanent stationary positions in the standings. The West Seifert Streaks in the D league, for example, have won 8 straight games and tied 1 after an early season record of 2 wins and 3 losses. They tied the first place Merlini Saints last week and defeated the second place Gaspar Trojans shortly before. The East Seifert Dingbatts and the Merlini Pears have also been winning regularly enough to boost themselves in the standings. Most of the recent changes that have taken place in the A league concern the second division teams in that league. The Aquinas Alkies have skipped to the top of the B league as a result of the defeat of the Halas Mafia at the hands of the Bennett Joes. This game was a rematch of a game that was protested earlier in the season by the Mafia. In the C league the Gaspar Blue-Grays and the East Seifert Collegiates have both improved their lot.

Lou Markowski of Bennett Hall was successful on 46 out of 50 free throw attempts to win this year's free toss contest. Ron Boguski of Gaspar was second with 43. Three were tied for third with 42—Fritz Dunderman of Noll, Bill Kennedy of Drexel, and Chuck Naylor of Merlini. In the scoring for the All-Sports trophy the first place winner receives 10 points; second place gets 8, and third place gets 4 points.

On Monday either Wilfred Gustafson or Vito Mitalo will be pitted against the one other finalist who survived yesterday's action in the ping pong tournament in the game that will decide the singles champion. At the time of this writing the four who have a chance for this role are Bob Schrei, Reece O'Connor, Bill Kirwen, and Ron Grontkowski. On Tuesday it will be the team of Kirwen and Biernat against either Sadorf and Gustafson or Bill Cormack and Phil Harrington. Both championship games will be played at 7 p.m.

Volleyball rosters are now being accepted at the fieldhouse for the all-campus tournament beginning on March 28 and running until Easter vacation. The rosters should be limited to 8 players and should be in by 6 p.m. on Thursday, March 24. It doesn't matter whether or not you had a team entered into the regular volleyball season; this is a separate tournament and everyone intending to participate should get his team's roster in.

VOLLEYBALL

Intramural Volleyball action on Feb. 19 saw the Bennett Volley Hi's defeat the Merlini Terrible Huns 15-8, 10-15, 15-8. Other games found the Drexel Dohabeks downing the Drexel Spikers 15-6, 15-7, 15-11, and the Merlini Hermaphrodites winning their first game of the year by a 15-8, 15-6 score over the Whitehouse Gridders. The Halas Have Nots gained a forfeit victory over the Gallagher E.P. Bungas and the Merlini Pears and Halas Huns failed to show for their game.

In the full schedule of games on Feb. 26, the Bennett Volley Hi's maintained their perfect record and their league lead by defeating the Drexel Spikers 15-8, 15-10. Meanwhile the Halas Huns defeated the Gallagher E.P. Bungas 15-10, 14-16, 15-9. The Whitehouse Gridders tied the Spikers and Huns for second place by knocking off the Merlini Pears 15-8, 15-10. The Drexel Dohabeks beat the Mer-lini Terrible Huns 15-12, 15-13, and Hala's Have Nots downed the Merlini Hermaphrodites 15-8, 15-13.
